Dubai, 14 June 2010 – Eton Institute, UAE's leading language training institute, announced a community poll on Facebook that will decide the next FREE language course to be offered this month. For the first time ever, fans & followers will decide the next FREE course to be offered at the Institute and can influence the results by encouraging friends and colleagues to vote for a language they are keen to learn for FREE!

Dr. Eli Abi Rached, Director, Eton Institute commented: "With more than 2000 followers on Facebook & Twitter, and over 100 languages to choose from, it gets harder to decide which language to offer for free every month and keep our army of followers happy! This month, while we take a backseat, you can decide which language you would like to learn for FREE and we will oblige. It can't get any better than this!"

Language learners may vote from 9 popular languages namely French, Spanish, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, Persian (Farsi), Chinese (Mandarin) and Turkish. The language with the highest number of votes will be offered absolutely for FREE in the form of a complete level at the Institute. Registrations for the free winning language course will open as soon as the polling hits 500 votes.

"The response we have received so far has been tremendous with over 100 votes already! Spanish seems to be in the lead at the moment with nearly 35% of the votes but this can change any time!" Dr. Rached remarked.

To cast your vote for the free language course of the month, simply visit Eton Institute's fan page on Facebook and select a language of your choice in the 'Poll' section.
